

Assignment 1

Index:

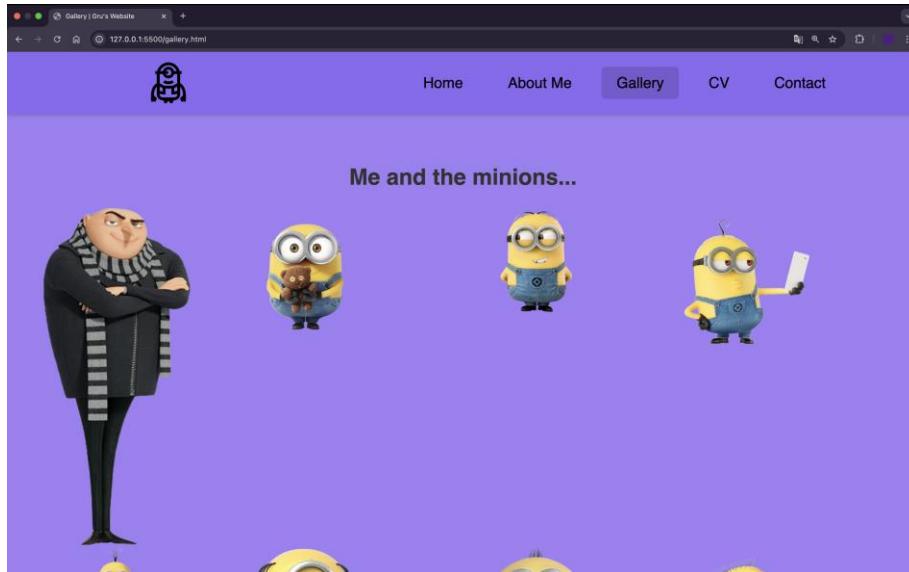

- I used a tutorial from w3school for the hover on the nav;
- Only thing on the home is just the gif

About me:

- I tried using media queries on the gru image but i still can't get it to not distort and stay on the right at the same time.

Gallery:

- I found it silly that it looked like they were floating around, so I left the images in all different sizes.
- They also get bigger when hovering;
- I wasn't sure how to stop them from going over the header. I found I could put z-index on my header but then decided it would be sillier if they kept floating aimlessly.

Contact:

A screenshot of a web browser showing a contact form. The page has a purple header with a logo of a person wearing a mask, and navigation links for Home, About Me, Gallery, CV, and Contact. The Contact link is highlighted with a grey background. Below the header, the text "Contact me!" is centered. There are three input fields labeled "Name:", "Email:", and "Message:". A "Send Message" button is located at the bottom of the form area.

- I used w3school again because I kept trying to use  instead of <label>, which wasn't terrible but it's probably better now.
- I also thought about making two different sections with the same contact info i put in the cv but decided not to, might 've been excessive.
